INTRODUCTION

Background-of the-Problem
Language-is the central thing in human life. It is-an instrument for conveying meaning and a way to interact one to another person in communication. According to Sapir, language-is primarily an-auditory system of symbols. in so far as it is-articulated it is also a motor system, but the motor aspect of speech iis clearly secondary to the audiitory.1 it means, language is a method and a control prompting observation in both speaker and listener. The-importance of-language in establishing social identity is shown in the case-of slang.

Partridge states that slang is-easy enough to use-but very hard to write about with the facile convincingness that a subject apparently so simple would, at first sight, seem to demand.2 It means, in everyday conversations people use slang to make it easier for them to communicate and help express their feelings, but not a few people also have difficulty writing or explaining the original meaning of each slang word. According to Adams, the speaker-uses slang in-order to achieve social-dynamics with the people to whom he or she is-speaking and slang outlines social spaces, and attitudes towards slang helps iidentifiy.3 it means, slang is used because it is a language that-is-easily accepted and- understood, especially by-teenagers. They-often use-this language either directly-or indirectly. 1 Edward Sapir “Language: An Introduction to The Study of Speech” (New York: Harcourt, Brace, 1921), p.16. 2 Eric Partridge “Slang Today and Yesterday” (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1933) p.1. 3 Michael Adams

“Slang” (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2009), p.57. 2 Frommer and Finegan state that Slang terms are regularly found in films and music audits, way of life pieces, and individual sections.

The motivation behind why they pick the film as a research media is on the grounds that the discussions in the film truly occur in the genuine circumstance. It will make it simple for researchers to decide the perspectives they need to investigate.⁴ It means that we can find this kind of non-standard words everywhere, it is not only popular in informal-daily conversations, but also in magazine, radio, song and movie and from them it is the simple way to analyze the slang language. Most people are often imitated the style and the way the actors spoke in a movie, especially when the characters use slang. Teenagers regularly use it in their daily conversation with their group. Slang, teenagers feel free in discussion with their community, inevitably and wherever without who comprehend the meaning. Finegan states that anyone of any age and any social standing can legitimately use slang, he states that slang is a crucial part of a young person “coming of age”.⁵ It means that although slang is a non-standard word, it is still an important and accepted part of society as everyday language. It is one of language-phenomenon that makes the writer interested to analyze slang. In this case, the writer chose Toy Story 4 movie as a media to analyze. Toy Story 4 is a 2019 American 3D computer-animated adventure comedy-drama film produced by Pixar Animation Studios for Walt Disney Pictures.

It was directed by Josh Cooley from a screenplay by Andrew Stanton and Stephany Folsom. Toy Story 4 movie has an interesting story within the 3D computer-animated adventure. Paul R. Frommer & Edward Finegan “Looking at Languages: A Workbook in Elementary Linguistics” (USA: University of Southern California, 2004), p. 243. 5 Edward Finegan “Language Its Structure and Use 5th Edition” (USA: University of Southern California, 2004), p. 321. 3 comedy-drama genres because this movie has funny and hilarious dialogs and the characters on the film regularly used slang language in their discussion which are sound unusual for individuals who do not comprehend and use that language in their discussion. The primary motivation behind why the writer picked this movie was because the writer found that today's slang could easily become standard language rapidly where it turns out can be found in any formal and casual situation and that the main characters on the movie regularly use slang language in their discussion which are sound individuals who do not comprehend and utilize that language in their discussion. In the Toy Story 4 movie, the characters in this movie uttered slang language in various situations. For example: Giddy-up. (Minute 00:08:39,800). According to the Routledge Dictionary of Modern American Slang and Unconventional English, giddy-up in the text means the beginning or the inception.⁶ It is a slang word from „get thee up“ which is usually used to get a horse to start moving or to go faster.⁷

Type of this slang is Compounding since two words or more in which the words are formed not related with denotative which means. In this case, Bonnie was playing with the dolls and yelling at Bullseye, a horse doll character who is a doll character Jessie riding to move on, so that she said Giddy-up. It functions to express initiate relax conversation. are formed not related with denotative which means. In this case, Old Timer character was telling Woody that Woody had got the first lump of dust on his hip, so that he said dust bunny to Woody. This slang functions to show intimacy. However, it is very hard to know the meaning of slang words in the dialogue of movie due to with the words. This, it needs to be learned more deeply because it might be difficult to understand the movie unless we find the meaning of slang in English slang dictionary. Due to that reason, this research conducted in order to give positive contribution for the learners. We can find easily the- slang words- which spoken by all characters in the Toy Story 4 movie to increase our new vocabulary, besides that we are able to know how the slang words are formed and the reasons of using them slang. According to the explanation, it became the background the writer to choose a title “An Analysis of Slang Words Used In “Toy Story 4”.

RESEARCH METHOD

Descriptive qualitative research was applied in this study. Qualitative research is used to investigate social phenomena (Trochim and William, 2006). Descriptive qualitative is one of the research procedures which produce descriptive data in form of speech and the behavior of those being observed (Bogdan and Taylor, 1992). For this case, Bogdan and Biklen (1982) recommended the characteristic of qualitative research as the natural setting and the researcher as a key instrument. It means that the researcher is an actor to collect the data (Moleong, 2005). Data of this research was taken from Toys Story 4 Movie meanwhile subject of this research was utterances that belong to slang language.

CONCLUSION AND IMPLICATION

Of the 25 slang words studied in this study, the researcher found slang forms which included 11 words in abbreviation, 1 word in shortened form and 13 words in interjection

Based on the results of the research, it shows that slang was thought of as vulgar and street language because it is only used by criminals and the lowest class of society. However, now slang is used by teenagers and certain social classes. The factor that makes teenagers use slang words can be because they are influenced by several influencers because of the rise of influencers who use them in mass and electronic media, so that teenagers use them more often in their daily lives or use social media. This is natural because teenagers like to imitate new things.
